We understand the condition of your gravel road isn't satisfactory. However, with the temperatures last week being below freezing accompanied by snow and then this past weekend's 50 degree temperatures joined with rainfall is a recipe for disaster on gravel surfaces. We are doing our best to fix the worst areas by lightly touching them up, but will not be able to grade them properly until the roadway dries out. If we grade them when the gravel is saturated we will create more of a problem than there already is.
